Poland is a predominately Catholic nation, and many traditions revolve around church services, fasting, and other religious customs. Like in most parts of the world, food is an important part of the holiday and the dinner table is filled with traditional entrees. Town squares and most homes are decorated with Christmas trees, and special holiday markets pop-up around the country selling typical foods, gifts, and souvenirs.

Jasełka - the term stands for "nativity play" in Polish. Nativity plays are usually performed by children in schools or churches. A nativity scene, on the other hand, is called szopka. Karp - surprisingly for many, carps are probably the most "festive" animals in Poland. Most Poles choose to abstain from meat (except for fish) and alcohol on Christmas Eve.

An old Polish proverb says 'Gość w dom, Bóg w dom', which means that the presence of a guest is God's blessing. Hospitality is a part of the Polish identity and Poles are determined not to leave anybody alone or hungry on Christmas – this is why they traditionally put an extra plate on the Christmas table. In fact, rarely does any unexpected guest come but if you ever happen to be in Poland and your friends know that you have nobody to spend Christmas evening with, expect several ...
